TWO CENTS

SOLICITORS ARE GIVEN FULL POWER IN WAGON MINE HEARINGS

Uniontown Association Preparing To Present A Strong Case

IS NOW COLLECTING EVIDENCE

At a meeting of the Tri-County Motor Mines Association, held in Uniontown on Monday evening, the executive committee was authorized to canvass the territory and give all team and motor mine loaders an opportunity to affiliate with the Association for their mutual benefit and secure such data as will be indispensable to the association in filing their answer to the temporary order of the Public Service Commission.

The solicitors will canvass every team or motor mine loader in his respective territory and have a questionnaire filled out showing the capital involved and the number of men employed in this particular business. When the hearing is had, the Association intends to be fortified with all possible information tending to show cause why the order should be annulled.

While the association has been in existence but a week, it has attracted widespread attention, a number of coal men having called upon members of the association to get their views on means of protecting their interests. Upon request of coal men from Latrobe and Ligonier a committee from the Uniontown association will meet with them at Ligonier this evening to explain the workings of the association and enroll them in the organization.

In the opinion of counsel for the association the recent order of the Public Service Commission is unreasonable and prejudicial. The conditions were different at the present time from the time the Swaney case versus the B. & O. Railroad ruling was made the coal companies were operating under the Lever act, and the Commission had allowed the Commission 75 cents additional for the extra expense involved in loading and unloading the box cars, and therefore were of the opinion that the present ruling should not have been adopted. The solicitors were given full power to act as the case may demand. An effort will be made to have the hearings held in Pittsburgh, so that as many of the motor and wagon mine operators from this end of the state may be able to attend.

Sealed bids will be received at the Post Office for carrying of mail between CharleROI and Pennsylvania Railway Station, until 2 o'clock P. M. August 20th, 1920.

J. K. Smith, Postmaster.

GARAGE PROPRIETORS TO FIGHT BLUE LAWS

The garage proprietors of Waynesburg are going to fight the application of the blue laws governing Sunday traffic to their business. Officers of that borough are enforcing the law and already a number of suits have been instituted and the violators have been fined. The garage proprietors propose to contest the application of the law to their business, and to that end have appealed a case wherein one of their number was fined by a local justice for selling gasoline on Sunday.

BOOZE PICNIC RESULTS IN RAID

Eight men were arrested on Sunday at Rush run, in Luzerne township, Fayette county, charged with disorderly conduct, with selling liquor and with violation of the Sunday laws. The men were brought to Brownsville and given a hearing before Justice Garriets Monday evening.

According to the information under which the arrests were made, hundreds of people from the mining towns up the river above Brownsville have been gathering in the woods along Rush run on Sundays for the past month, where a large dancing pavilion has been erected, together with refreshment stands where beer and liquor were dispensed to the thirsty.

When the county officers walked in on the party last Sunday they found everything in full swing, the stand dispensing liquor, an orchestra playing, while a barbecue was being prepared for the benefit of those in attendance.

The officers confiscated a 15-gallon keg of "pickhandle," and three quarts of whisky. The keg was taken from the refreshment stand, while the whisky was taken from a man who was peddling the liquor among the crowd. The raid was made after complaint had been filed with the authorities by the officials of the mines in that locality.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR KERFOOT CARSON

Funeral services for Kerfoot Carson will be held at the family home Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, standard time, in charge of Rev. J. B. Jamison, pastor of the Pigeon Creek United Presbyterian church, interment to follow in the Maple creek cemetery.

Thomas H. Nutt, for many years a resident of Fayette City, died at his home there Monday evening at 5 o'clock. He was aged 79 years. Funeral services were held this morning at 10 o'clock, interment in Fayette City cemetery.

Ringgold Veterans Hold Their Annual Reunion

The forty-seventh annual reunion of the Ringgold Cavalry was held in Monongahela on Tuesday. Fifty-one former members of this famous command, as well as thirty other civil war veterans were registered at city hall during the day, which was the center of activities for the old soldiers.

The morning hours were taken up in registration of veterans and greetings among former comrades. At noon time the veterans were entertained by the people of Monongahela by a dinner served in the dining room of the Methodist church. Mrs. James Blythe, the oldest member of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Grand Army, and the widow of a former member of the Ringolds, delivered the address of welcome, and the response was given by Carl E. Gibson, son of Capt. James B. Gibson, also a veteran of the Ringolds.

A very pleasing program had been prepared for the dining hour, which consisted of musical selections by Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Snider of Los Angeles, California, and S. W. McNulty of Washington, a vocal solo by Miss Harriet Hazard of Monongahela; and addresses by Dr. A. Enfield of Bradford; William Elwood and S. C. Farrar, veterans; Rev. Percy Davis of Monessen, and George E. McCaskey of Washington, and a recital by Mrs. Maude Chutaway.

A business session of the veterans was held immediately after dinner, at which time officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year, and Washington chosen as the next place of holding the reunion. It was also commented upon that one of the original members of Company A, organized in 1847, Adam Wickerham of Carroll township, was among those present.

RECEIVE NO BIDS FOR COAL SUPPLY

A special meeting of the school board of Monessen was held Monday evening last, at which time they expected to consider bids for the coal supply for the various school buildings for the coming winter. Bids had been advertised for, but when the meeting opened the secretary informed the members that no bids had been received to furnish the desired supply. Coal dealers appear to be diffident about submitting bids at this time for coal, owing to the disturbed state of the market. The board will meet next week, in the meantime continuing to advertise for coal bids in the hope of securing some one to make deliveries.

CRUSADE STARTED AGAINST LOAFING

Monongahela police, under direction of Mayor Allen, are enforcing the provisions of an ordinance against loitering on the streets of that city. Many complaints have come to the police department against the practice of street loafers, making themselves a nuisance and making obscene and insulting remarks about persons passing. The police are directed to order all such persons to move on, and in case of refusal to arrest them.

There will be a meeting of the local Democrats at the Woodward Piano store, Friday evening, August 20, to make arrangements to attend Cox meeting in Pittsburgh, Friday, August 27. All interested are invited. Committee 63-t2p

STANDING TRIAL FOR BRUTAL MURDER

Before Judge McIlvaine in criminal court at Washington on Tuesday, Andre Nichiporuk was placed on trial for his life, being charged with the murder of his wife, Molly Nichiporuk, last month. District Attorney Edwin Cummins is asking for a first degree verdict.

Each juror was challenged separately and only two had been selected when court adjourned Tuesday evening. Because of the circumstance surrounding this case it is attracting a great deal of attention.

On March 23 last, Molly Nichiporuk was found almost buried in the mud in a cornfield in Peters township. She was in a dying condition, and was immediately taken to a home nearby. She had been terribly beaten, and died a short time after being taken to the home. From evidence in the hands of the commonwealth it appears that Nichiporuk had had some trouble, and she had gone to an eastern city. He went after her and persuaded her to return with him. Since being in jail Nichiporuk made two attempts to escape and at another time attempted to commit suicide.

The employees of the J. E. Masters store held their annual picnic Tuesday evening at Oakland park. A very delightful time was spent by all the participants.

BANDIT SAID TO HAVE MADE CONFESSION AS TO BANK ROBBERY

VERDICT OF GUILTY IN CHIROPRACTIC CASE

In the case of the commonwealth against M. D. Greenfield, tried before Judge Brownson in the Washington county courts, the jury on Tuesday returned a verdict of guilty. The charge was practicing druggist's pharmacy without a certificate. Sentence was postponed. An action of a similar character has been brought before a similar practitioner in Monongahela. Dr. Greenfield states that no chiropractor has been licensed in Pennsylvania since the present law was enacted. If a new trial is not granted in this case it will be appealed to a higher court, according to Dr. Greenfield.

Fatally Wounded while Trying to Escape Officers in Michigan Town

HAD TAKEN PART IN ROBBERY

A confession which it is said may clear up some of the details in connection with the robbery of the First National Bank of Finleyville, and also the National Bank in Hays borough, has been made by a member of a gang of bank bandits now in the jail hospital at Jackson, Michigan. In order to confirm reports the Pittsburgh police department has sent representatives to that city in an attempt to identify a number of the members of this gang, all of whom are in this hospital, suffering from gunshot wounds received while attempting to escape from officers after looting a bank there.

The confession is said to have been made by a man named James Hathaway, who also is known by several aliases, who is lying at the point of death in the jail hospital with six bullet wounds. The other members of the gang, who were also wounded before they were captured, are James Sweeney, James Sullivan and Jack Comfort, all of whom are known by other well known names to the police.

The gang suffered their injuries early Monday morning during a gun battle with a posse headed by the sheriff of Jackson county, following the looting of a bank at Jackson during which $30,000 was stolen. Following the robbery the gang attempted to escape in a large gray automobile, which answers the description of the one used by the bandits who looted the Hays bank. They were followed by the posse in other machines, and during the gun battle that followed on the outskirts of Jackson four of the gang were overcome. Three others escaped with the money.

When Hathaway was taken to the hospital it was found that he was in a serious condition. It was then that he made the alleged confession. One man, Jack Hogan, is already in the Washington county jail charged with being a party to the Finleyville robbery, while there is another prisoner being held also at Washington who is believed to have been implicated in the same holdup. If Hathaway has made a confession it is believed it will go a long way toward clearing up the circumstances surrounding both the Finleyville and Hays robberies.

AUTO TIRE THIEVES JAILED FOR HEARING

Brownsville police arrested two men in that town, one white and one colored, for the theft of auto tires from the machine of a traveling salesman. The theft occurred last Thursday night, the tires being taken from the machine as it stood under the intercounty bridge in South Brownsville. The two men who had stolen the tires sold them to a taximan in West Brownsville for $12.50 each, and he was also arrested for receiving stolen goods. The police had suspicion of the two young men arrested for the theft, and their arrest followed in a few days after the tires disappeared.

WHAT THE FARMER HAS TO FACE

"At present about 88 per cent of our unmanufactured foodstuff imports are on the free list. All would be free were it not for the duties placed by the Democratic party on peanuts, rice, and other products of the south. The truth is that the American farmer is facing a situation which grows worse every month. The demand abroad for his products is decreasing; foreign foods are pouring in, thanks to the free list once more indorsed by the Democratic platform; and the Administration 'cost plus' system succeeded in 'demoralizing' labor to an extent which makes it almost impossible for the farmer to secure help at any reasonable price. He can not compete with other industries for labor. The Republicans have passed a law authorizing association of agricultural producers and other methods calculated to cut cross-lots to the consumer and to save the farmers from the hands which prey on their exertions and the Republicans believe in restricting farm products. The Democrats have passed a law which is getting in debt but doesn't help the farmer after he has paid his taxes. Harding promises to do as the statement of the farmer's needs which robs the farmer of his profits and then demands that the consumer should pay for the goods to get behind the farmer. The farmer wants to go to the front line."

The steadily rising tide of imports into the United States—an unaffailing measure of the extent of Europe's economic and industrial recovery from the effects of the war—presages an unprecedented struggle for world markets, for which this country must prepare, thoroughly and without delay, if we expect to hold our prominent position in foreign trade, according to the Guaranty Trust company of New York, in its semi-monthly foreign trade review. Of our thirteen billion dollar foreign trade for the fiscal year just ended, more than five billions represented imports, an increase of more than two billion dollars over 1919, and our excess of exports over imports for the year ended June 30, was approximately 20 per cent less than that for the preceding

DONORA REPORTS AN INCREASE IN DRUNKS

Drunkenness in the borough of Donora, according to reports, is on the increase, and there is said to be more intoxicated individuals on the streets at that town at the present time than there ever were during the days of old J. B. Many complaints have been made of late on account of "blind pigs" and "speakeasies" which are said to flourish there. Police officials are on the lookout for these places, but in spite of all that can be done in this respect, there does not appear to be any decrease in the number of drunks. It is admitted that many of the residents of that town and particularly those of foreign birth, are taking care of their own supply, and supply their needs for stimulants by means of home brew.

Attorney General William I. THAT DULL ACHING

Don't worry and complain about a bad back. Get rid of it! For weak kidneys, lame and aching backs, your neighbors recommend Dean's Kidney Pills. Read this statement:

Mrs. S. W. Henning, 81 Followfield Ave., Charleroi, says: "I was first troubled, with a dull, heavy ache across the small of my back that made me feel run down and miserable. It was almost impossible for me to bend over and when I did sharp twinges would catch me and I could hardly move. I didn't feel rested in the morning and always had a headache. I often became dizzy, too, and black specks appeared before my eyes. My kidneys were certainly in bad shape, so on reading about Dean's Kidney Pills I decided to try them. It was wonderful how soon they gave me relief and in no time my trouble entirely disappeared."

MILK

Old Eph Brown, long haired, lean and given to argument was holding forth to an open-mouthed group of loungers. "Ye may talk as ye please about pasteurized milk, ye can't have it in winter time for there's no pasture for the cows to cut. Ah! I leave it to Don George over there if it ain't so."

"I am afraid Mr. Brown has misunderstood," smiled the Doctor. "The word 'Pasteurized' has no relation to grass or meadows, but has reference to a certain treatment of milk that was advised by a celebrated scientist, named Pasteur, who discovered that if milk were heated to 171 degrees and kept at that temperature for a half hour, disease germs it might contain would be rendered harmless, while the food value of the milk would not be lessened."

"Well I'll swan," said Eph. "The doctor added, 'To be of value, pasteurization should be done soon after milking. Germs multiply rapidly and throw off poisons called toxins. Late pasteurization, while it destroys the germs, does not destroy the toxins. Such milk is not good for any person and is particularly unsafe for babies.'"

Eph interrupted, "Say, Doc, I've raised children and grandchildren, and none of 'em ever had pasteurized milk, as you call it."

"That shows what strong children eat, stat, but it is no argument against making milk safe."

"Over in Blaine township there was a farmer who kept a few cows and peddled milk in Averetown, four miles away. He didn't groom his cows, he didn't wipe their udders with a damp cloth before milking, and he did not pasteurize his milk. He regarded such practices as 'new fangled foolishness.'"

"One hot summer day his grandchild took suddenly sick. When the doctor came, he said, 'bad milk.' As he picked up a milk bottle and gave it a sudden swirl, numerous specks were seen moving about the bottom."

"The grandfather was hard to convince, but when the laboratory report showed an extraordinary high number of germs present and when a dozen other babies along his route sickened, he believed. He told me the other day that it almost cost the life of his grandchild to convince him, but you should see his place now. Clean cows, which have been tested for tuberculosis; clean stable; clean hands for milkers; clean buckets and pans, always cleansed in boiling water or by steam; a small pasteurization plant; clean milk bottles and clean caps. After the milk has been pasteurized it is kept at a low temperature."

Dr. George went on his way, but he had sown seed in fertile ground.

Eph Brown started immediately on a campaign of education—his methods were neither diplomatic nor elegant, but he kept at it. It wasn't long until the whole community was talking milk. The Woman's Club, composed largely of young mothers, called a meeting and invited an expert to speak to them.

He told them the food value of milk was greater in proportion to its cost than anything they could buy. That housewives usually measure the food value by the depth of the cream line on the bottle. This, he said, was unreliable in milk that has been pasteurized, but is of some value in raw or untreated milk.

State laws regulate the amount of cream or fat in milk and prohibit the use of adulterants.

"Every town," he said, "has the power to pass ordinances requiring milk men not only to have a license to sell their product, but to conform to the sanitary regulations concerning the handling of milk, which have been laid down by the State Department of Health."

"Typhoid fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever, and other diseases may be transmitted through milk, which has been polluted either from the hands of the milkers, from flies, from the water used in cleansing utensils and in numerous other ways. The remedy is intelligent supervision, the enforcement of the milk ordinances, which include, of course, pasteurization to destroy the germs."

"The appointment of a health officer to supervise the milk industry is for the community and to the enforcement of the laws which were made for the protection of the people."

"The nutritional value of milk products such as butter, cheese, and ice cream, and advised a pint, or more, of clean, wholesome milk daily, for each growing child."

Public interest did not cease with the close of the meeting. The committee appointed were active and on the job. The tables of Greensward are going to have a chance, and it all came about because old Eph Brown brought cows on pasture gave pasteurized milk.

THE MARKET BASKET

"Everything's so high," complained Mrs. Thompson, "and my four never seem to get enough. They're as skinny as rails, too—well Ed's fat enough but Mr. Thompson says he hasn't muscle and he's sick half the time." Mrs. Harris' bright eyes travelled to her neighbor's market basket.

"Maybe the children aren't getting the right kind of food," she suggested, as they left the market.

"I always buy the best there is," returned Mrs. Thompson in slightly injured tones. But Mrs. Harris was determined to get a square deal for the hungry little Thompsons, if she could.

"Well," she continued, "I've found that children have to have certain kinds of food or they don't thrive. There's milk—"

"Eighteen cents a quart for something to drink!"

"But it's the most important food in the world for children. It has more of the different kinds of things that they need than any other food. A quart of milk has the same food value as a pound of meat or nine eggs, and think of the cost of those!"

"Milk don't care for it. They like tea and coffee better."

"And it's so bad for them! Why don't you try coloring their milk with a little cocoa? And, of course, you can give it to them in soups and puddings and on cereals and toast. Each of mine gets at least a pint a day in some form."

"What else do you give them?" Mrs. Thompson was getting interested.

"Well, I make a point of having a green vegetable every day." Mrs. Thompson's basket contained nothing green.

"Spinach?"

"Spinach is fine. All the leafy vegetables are—spinach, chard, cabbage, beet greens, lettuce. But all green vegetables have minerals which are good for the blood and help make good teeth and bones. Onions boiled are splendid and are usually rather cheap. Besides there are beets, carrots and string beans. Celery and asparagus are all right, but they contain less nourishment than the others and are usually expensive anyway."

"What about potatoes?"

"Children ought to have them. They are a starchy food, like bread and cereals, and even better for children than bread. I bake them in order to save their mineral. I have a cooked cereal every morning, too—a package of oat meal costs less and has about eight times as much nourishment as the same sized package of dry cereal, besides having iron in it." (Mrs. Thompson looked guiltily at her two packages of ready to eat cereal.)

"Don't you give them any meat?"

"Yes, a little. Either meat or fish or eggs—they are all growth foods, like milk. Meat wouldn't be necessary if they drank more milk, and it would be cheaper to get the milk for them, but we have meat on the table and the children like it, so I give them some. I don't let them have fried meat or sausage or pork—they're too indigestible."

"Children always want sweet things, and I suppose that's bad for them."

"Oh, no, a little does no harm if given at the end of a meal. I make custards and rice puddings for them, or we have stewed or fresh fruit or a few pieces of candy for dessert. Ice cream is all right, and, of course, a treat. I don't have pies or rich cake. And I don't let them eat sweet things, or anything else, between meals. It spoils their appetite for wholesome food at the table."

"Maybe that's why my children are never hungry when they sit down at the table. But don't you ever give them an apple or an orange or a banana?"

"Yes indeed, at meals. The baby has his fruit juice or stewed apples or prune pulp. The others have all kinds of cooked fruit, and oranges and apples and peaches when they're ripe. I'm careful to see that they have some fruit every day. I don't give them bananas, though, unless they're very ripe," noticing Mrs. Thompson's bunch of pale yellow ones. "The brown skinned ones are more digestible and cheaper, too."

"Your children do look so healthy, and I don't believe it costs a bit more."

"It doesn't, if you buy carefully. I don't buy fancy package goods. I buy in bulk whenever I can, and I make sure of the things that are necessary."

"It's hard to make children eat what's good for them."

"Yes, but they're hungrier at meal time if they are out of doors a lot, and have nothing to fill up on between meals. Maybe you could get them interested, too, in watching their weight go up."

"I'm going to try," said Mrs. Thompson, as they reached her front door. "I may be over for another lesson."

"Any time," laughed her friend.

"Mr. Harris says that I'll get everybody down on me if I don't stop telling them what they ought to eat. But we've been so much better, and happier ourselves since we started eating that I want everybody to know it."

Small Cars—and the Declining Cost of Tire Mileage

You are aware, of course, that during the last ten years, Goodyear has been able steadily to increase the amount of mileage built into its tires.

Do you realize, also, that this increase has been accomplished without extra cost to the user—that Goodyear Tires are priced no higher today than in 1910?

To no tire in the Goodyear line is the declining cost of mileage more evident than in the present 30 x 3 1/2, 30 x 3 3/4 and 31 x 4-inch size Goodyear Tires made especially for small cars.

If you own a Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell or other car taking these sizes, go to your nearest Service Station for Goodyear Tires—get the exceptional worth and endurance that Goodyear builds into them.

30 x 3 1/2 Goodyear Double-Cure Fabric, All-Weather Tread $2350

30 x 3 3/4 Goodyear Single-Cure Fabric, Anti-Skid Tread $2150

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes cost no more than the price you are asked to pay for tubes of less merit—why risk costly casings when such sure protection is available? 30 x 3 1/2 size $450 in waterproof bag

They Don't Need Much Sugar

Old fashioned housewives canned by the open kettle method, and required a great deal of sugar to keep the fruit. When sugar was scarce or high they canned very little.

The scarcity of sugar this year is making little difference in canning. The cold pack method not only makes vegetable canning safe and advantageous, but it permits fruit canning to be done in a very light syrup. With our equipment, fruits may be safely canned without sugar.

We have all sizes Jars, Covers, Good Luck Jar Rings, Wrenches, Wax, Ladles, Funnels, Tops, Sieves and Strainers, Handy Jelly Bag or Strainer with table attachment; wood spoons, enamel, aluminum, tinned Basting Spoons, all sizes; Fruit Jar Racks, used in the wash boiler, Handy Fruit Jar Holders. Everything you will need for canning fruits and vegetables.
